English Challenge

Dan Freedman is a famous author who has written many books aimed at teenagers. Many of his stories are about sport but also include issues we all face at school and at home.

In September you will be lucky enough to hear a speech from the author himself!

Please complete the tasks in this booklet and give them to your English teacher in your first English lesson in September...

Do you want to meet the author himself?

We have limited places available for students to meet Dan Freedman face to face in September and have their copy of the book signed.

In order to be chosen you will need to write a letter to Dan. The students with the best letters will be selected to meet the man himself.

Your letters need to include the following things:

- What you most enjoyed about the story
- What you learnt from reading it
- Any suggestions for future books

It needs to be very neatly presented, it can be typed or hand-written. You need to take lots of care with your spelling, punctuation and grammar.

Dan is really looking forward to reading your letters, so bring them to your first English lesson!

Read and Review...

You need to read 'Born to Play' completely. In your first library lesson you will complete a quiz on it. Your English teachers will also be testing your knowledge of the reading in the first lessons too!

All about you...

In the first half term we will be exploring the idea of identity in a range of short stories from around the world. In preparation for this we would like you to tell us all about yourself. You can write this in any way. It could be another letter, or it could be a diary, newspaper article, poem or story.

We are looking out for students who are creative and detailed in their writing. We are also hoping to find out lots about our new students.

These should be completed and handed to your English teacher in the first week back.
